Colorado DKG State Convention Recap

The Colorado Delegation came out strong for the 2023 Colorado State Convention on June fifth! The day began with registration, snacks, and networking. President Suzanne Foster welcomed members from all over Colorado. Kathy Parker, Phi Chapter, introduced Dr. Kimberly Zant, Otero Junior College president, who welcomed members to LaJunta and to Otero Junior College. After the presentation of our society, state, and national flags, President Foster led the Pledge of Allegiance, thus beginning our convention.

The first general session began at 1:45 pm, and was followed by several tour alternatives. Members could visit Bent's Old Fort, The Koshare Museum, or the Otero Museum. Members gathered together again for a delicious meal, after which, the MAHE choir practiced.

Day Two began with coffee and networking. The remainder of the day was filled with doing society business, learning new skills, and fellowshiping with one another. The day ended with our President's March and the bi-annual banquet. Our DKG International guest was Connie Rensink, who graciously filled in for Dr. Barbara Baethe. Dr. Rensink spoke on "Making Stimulating Connections: How do we build connections within DKG". She reminded us that connections make our society!

Wednesday, June 7 was the final day of the convention and included the final business session, the Ceremony of Remembrance, and outgoing President Suzanne Foster passing the gavel to our president for the 2023-2025 biennium, Dr. Maxine Fawcett-Yeske. The new officers were installed and the convention ended with the retirement of the flags and the singing of the DKG Song.

Team Updates

Membership Team

In June Farabe Smith, Colorado DKG Membership Team co-chair, attended the State Membership Chair Training which was presented by the DKG International Membership and Expansion Committee. The international committee discussed these topics:

- Identifying, inviting and inducting new members
- Inspiring, building up, and affirming members

- Tracking and documenting member data
- Problem-solving members' issues
- Supporting members in distress
- Celebrating members' accomplishments
- Honoring deceased members

One of the first steps in examining the state of membership in DKG is to discover why members are dropping out. Some of the reasons that were discovered in a membership survey were the dissolution of the chapter, the timing of meetings, other responsibilities, needs not being met by the chapter, health, economic situations, relocation, death, and non-payment of dues. Secondly, prospective members need to have a clear understanding of exactly WHO is qualified to become a member of DKG. Those who are qualified are:

- Both certified and non-certified classroom teachers
- School administrators and counselors
- Para professionals
- Community teachers
- Health professionals

The presentation also included a recruitment plan, planning for retention of members, reinstatement of former members, mentoring, expansion, and a tour of areas of the international website that will be helpful for Membership and Expansion Teams.

Sisters in the News!

Please be sure to check out the DKG International Fine Arts gallery at <https://gallery.dkg.org> for submissions from the following sisters:

Loretta Kerr of Phi Chapter has two submissions on display. Her photographs "Bee Visiting Columbine" and "Harbinger of Spring" were both accepted for display during the Spring 2023 display. Congratulations, Loretta. Your photographs are beautiful.

Two photographs by Maureen McGuire of Alpha Mu were also selected for inclusion in the fine arts gallery. Maureen's submissions are titled "Don't Miss the Curve" and "Don't Breathe too Hard". These photos feature some of that beautiful mountain scenery for which Colorado is famous.

While you're checking out our own talented photographers' works, be sure to take some time to look at the works of art that are being done by our sisters from other states.

Chapter Happenings

Rho Chapter

Rho Chapter held their May meeting at Big Sandy School in Simla. Highlights of the meeting were the awards presentation and the program. Emily Carter, niece of President Donna Jenkins and School Counselor at West Middle School in Cherry Creek, was the presenter. Her program, Mental Health: Helping Yourself and Others was very informative. With the major upheavals that have happened in the past several years, this program gave members a lot to think about. Along with Emily, other special guests were Donna Jenkins' and Mary Bauer's other two sisters, Kathleen Carter and Bonnie Brown.

In June we held our yearly planning meeting in the home of Donna Hoover. Donna graciously opens her home to Rho Chapter every year for this planning meeting. Our special treat each year, made by the hostess, is delicious dinner rolls and yummy homemade ice cream! We're looking forward to another great year of DKG!

Omega Chapter

Omega Chapter Omega Chapter is very proud of our Honor Roll recipient for 2023, Mary Metcalf. Some of her many qualifications for this honor were noted in the Honor Roll nominee form which are included below. Congratulations, Mary, and thank you from your fellow chapter members.

Mary, our recent past president, has been a member since 1995. She has consistently been involved in conventions, leadership teams, and planning and has encouraged members to do the same. Mary has invited many visitors to join and has added several new members over time.

Her excellent communication skills have kept the chapter well informed about DKG events. Her frequent recognition and celebration of member accomplishments has significantly strengthened our chapter. Omega Peaks and Plains has received numerous articles contributed by Mary.

Mary taught for 32 years. One year was as a special education teacher and the remaining as a kindergarten teacher. She also subbed many years after retirement.

Mary is known for being very organized, detailed, enthusiastic, compassionate, and creative in the classroom. Student's horizons were expanded by hands-on activities incorporating awareness and appreciation for nature and the environment. Lessons also enabled the children to gain an understanding of many basic concepts, such as how their food is grown. She has an unusual and sensitive ability to work with all students from other cultures.

Mary has counseled many Boy Scouts working on their Merit Badges. She has made hundreds of baby hoodies, cloth diapers, baby pants, baby quilts, etc. for numerous charities. She has made countless stocking caps for those experiencing homelessness. She has volunteered for Gateway Battered Women's Shelter.

Mary and her husband, Duane, have sponsored refugees from Vietnam and Poland.

In education, DKG, and community involvement everyone says Mary cares about others, always putting them first.

The "Out of This World" Big Balloon Build Colorado took place at the Aims Community College Welcome Center ballroom in Greeley. Allison Dunning, owner of Balloon Art by Merry Makers and the Balloon Boutique in downtown Greeley, worked for two years to bring this one-of-a-kind event to fruition. The event was a benefit for "Life Stories Child & Family Advocacy," which was Dunning's choice.

Seventy-five balloon artists from the United States and the world created an out-of-this-world unbelievable exhibit using only balloons. Artists used 125,000 different styles and colors of balloons in bright displays of aliens, planets, spaceships, and other out-of-this-world concepts. Artists and their teams volunteer their time and pay their own expenses.

Two Delta Chapter members participated in an amazing event in Greeley in July. Evans School District 6 Superintendent Dr. Deirdre Pilch was one of the balloon fashion models. Nancy Robinson, a longtime Life Stories volunteer, attended and took photos of the Friday modeling event

Life Stories Child & Family Advocacy was founded in 1995 as A Kid's Place and was initially part of the United Way, becoming an independent organization in 1998. The nonprofit investigates and prosecutes criminal cases of child abuse and neglect and provides family advocacy and support for victims and their non-offending family members. Life Stories has served more than 390 child victims and 720 non-offending family members.

Delta Chapter held its 2023–2024 planning meeting on August 5 at the home of President Amie Cieminski. Members brought items for a potluck breakfast and for a mid-morning break. First Vice-President Nancy Robinson shared information from the June Colorado DKG Convention in La Junta including sharing the 4-Star Chapter Award Delta received.

In addition to setting meeting dates the groups discussed possible programs and “field trip” locations. One site the chapter members hope to visit is the recently opened LINC Library Innovation Center in downtown Greeley. The 62,000 square foot building is state-of-the art featuring a fully equipped makerspace with 3D printers, laser engravers, die-cut machines, and a UV Printer, as well as industrial space with woodworking equipment. Chapter members are particularly interested in the opportunities for children and teens that exist at LINC with a hands-on learning children’s exhibit.

Linda Underwood and Jonna Christensen

Another potential field trip would be to the newly opened Greeley-Evans District 6 Career and Technical Education Center. The center is a 52,000-square-foot campus for students in fields such as IT-cybersecurity, construction, and welding, offering them post-secondary credits and industry certificates. More fields of study will be offered in the following school years.

Spotlight on Carol

When Carol Tebo has a bit of spare time, she gathers her bag of yarn and needles and begins to craft sweaters. These are her original designs and are destined for A Precious Child. She donates these “Precious Gifts” in a variety of sizes and patterns primarily for Christmas gifts parents can select for their child. Her three dimensional bunnies with poofy tails and teddy bears with chubby ears are sure to please the younger children while Irish Erin-style cables, rugby-style stripes, and bold color-block designs suit a slightly older group. Some of her designs are the result of not wanting to waste any materials, so a bit of yarn too little for anything major may become sleeves on one sweater while another small amount may become a stripe in a multi-colored striped full body. Her creativity and talented fingers are productive throughout the year so by holiday time she often has up to a dozen in her cache of gifts. For years she has been seen busily knitting on tour buses or more privately at home while watching football games. Her giving attitude and charitable heart are appreciated by the recipients of a Carol Tebo original design sweater. Zeta chapter is proud to have this Colorado DKG Honor Roll recipient be a member of Zeta.

Carol Tebo with several of her creations

February's Meeting was packed with informative and eye-opening opportunities available to the mature individuals of our community of Greeley. Our first presenter was Amy Threewett, a Volunteer Outreach Coordinator, who represented the 60+ Ride. They serve all of Weld County. 60+ Ride currently has 96 drivers and 100 volunteers. They are very proud of the 8,989 rides given last year. The rides provided our elderly with independence to go to the doctor, dentist, grocery store and other needed assistance. The program is always in need of more volunteers, drivers, and money donations.

Amy Threewett and Alpha Rho members

Weld County Aging Well Agency was represented by Tyler Holliman. Their main mission is to help maintain an individual's independence and dignity in their home and community. She informed us about many programs, but especially on Living Well. This took the form of wellness classes and workshops such as A Matter of Balance. These emphasized the importance of strategies for the prevention of falls. Another program available was Strong People. This includes exercises to maintain a strong core, develop density muscle mass and improve joint health. Techniques for Walking with Ease were also discussed. It stressed the importance of walking and how to incorporate it into our daily lives as much as possible.

The final presenter was Kimberly Bode from the NoCo Cycling Without Age. This agency offers free trishaw rides to those who would like to visit the Poudre River Trail but can't ride a bike on their own. Rides of 30 to 60 minutes are offered on weekdays. The piloted rides are provided by trained community volunteers. We learned how our organization can partner with this program. In March, our members were invited by Delta chapter to attend the newly opened Greeley West High School. Our meeting opened with a visit by the Superintendent of

Greeley School District 6, Dierdre Pilch. She explained the progress of District 6. The district is trying to increase the opportunities for all students whether they are preparing for college or vocational fields. The presentation was followed by a tour of the newly rebuilt parts of West High School. We were in awe of the spectacular additions and the opportunities provided to our students.

In April, the World Fellowship team spoke about the history of world fellowship. They also listed the requirements needed in order to be considered for the fellowship. The music committee served refreshments.

We convened at the Eaton Country Club for our May meeting. We were all delighted and spoiled by all of the decorations, and especially the gifts of the homemade bags and rings inside. They were made by Beth Barzdukas. Our program was given by author John A. Daly. He is a lifelong Coloradoan and graduated from the University of Northern Colorado. He currently writes political, cultural, and media columns. He has written many thrillers with Sean Coleman as the central character. The titles of these books are, Broken Slate, Safeguard, and, recently, Restitution.

In June, Alpha Rho members enjoyed perusing our scrapbooks and also enjoyed lots of casual visiting at the Pinnacle Clubhouse. Looking through the scrapbooks reminded us of how much we have accomplished and experienced in the past 48 years. The next step is creating a digital file. Our Scrapbook Committee is Vicki Sanderson, Dee Kratochvil, and Nancy Heinz. We appreciate all of our members who work, plan and record our continuing chapter activities.

All Things Joining

La Junta (Spanish for "the junction") was named for the fact that it rested at the intersection of the Santa Fe Trail and a pioneer road to Pueblo. The town developed near Bent's Fort. Railroads still puff through its grasslands. This municipality along the Arkansas River joins commercial, agricultural and ranching interests. How fitting then, that La Junta was the site for the Colorado State Organization Delta Kappa Gamma Society Convention in June. It was another joining of sorts. Women teachers from International, State and local chapters connected to promote each other and excellence in education. Otero College was the venue for general and breakout sessions.

As with all conventions, there was business (reports, questions to answer, passing the baton to new leadership). There was learning: the Connecticut Salem Witch Trials, the effort to exonerate these innocent victims of prejudice (Sarah Jack); Financial literacy for elementary school children modeled by students and their teacher (Diana Remick); the National Historic Camp Amache Site (John Tonai); Book talks (Juana Hajek), Alternative Tours to Koshare Museum and Otero Museum; Living in Africa (Michelle Miller); DKG 101 (panel, Connie Rensick); mental health (Kathleen Keelan) and silkscreen takeaway (Lynne Brujak). There was wonderful food catered by the student food services at Otero College; other times there was the nearby Boss Hoggs Restaurant. There was a platform for art of all types created by DKG members and the hosting chapters of Phi and Alpha Alpha. There was relaxing time walking the grounds of the Otero College Campus and the nearby park. There was formality with the transferring of leadership to the newly elected state organization officers for the 2023-2025 biennium. There was honor: star chapters recognized, honor roll, Citation of Merit Award and a Katherine Glendinning scholarship.

International Guest, Connie Rensinck, Immediate Past President, Suzanne Foster, and State DKG Archivist, Kathy Flynn

There was ceremony: remembering members who had died in the last two years through prose, poetry, song and white roses. There was joy in getting to know each other better as roommates and car passengers. There was purpose when our incoming Colorado State Organization President shared her "always knew she wanted to be a teacher story".

Dr. Maxine Fawcett-Yeske

What was her story? Well, when she was a little girl, she used to play school with her dolls. Not only that, she would assign homework to the dolls! She would even grade the doll's homework (which her mother had actually done for the dolls). That kind of support, the mother playing "school" with her daughter, is the same kind of support DKG members offer each other. So, thank you, Phi, Alpha Alpha and State Executive Board for curating every detail from program, venue, silent auction, door prizes to going home bags! Members left the convention heartwarmed and ready to share with others the essence of what it is to be a DKG woman educator!

MY Librarian

Once again, I have found myself on a nonfiction kick! I just finished listening to two interesting and informative nonfiction audiobooks. The first was Isaac's Storm: A Man, a Time, and the Deadliest Hurricane in History by Erik Larson. Larson also wrote The Devil in the White City. This book was written in 2000 and was also made into a movie. The book outlines the events of the 1900 Galveston hurricane, tells a little of the history of the National Weather Service, and describes the after-effects of the storm. Isaac Cline is the Isaac of the story. He was a meteorologist who was working in the Galveston meteorological office. The storm was unusual in many ways and confounded the men who were called upon to predict changes in the weather. The thought of the time was that a hurricane would never hit Galveston because of its location. Cuban meteorologists, however, believed that the hurricane WOULD indeed hit Galveston and tried to warn the Americans that they should prepare. The Americans did not believe them and were unprepared for the destruction that came. Several Galveston families are featured in the book, including Cline's own. There is a great deal of technical terminology in the book, but it is terminology that anyone who listens to weather reports on the news will understand.

The second book to which I listened was The Wager: A Tale of Shipwreck, Mutiny, and Murder. This one took place from 1740-1742 during one of the conflicts between Great Britain and Spain. The captain of The Wager was charged with capturing a Spanish galleon that was said to be filled with Spanish gold bound for Spain. The Wager ran aground and the crew was marooned for many months with very little food. This led to mutiny and murder. Several of the mutineers escaped and finally made it back to England, followed several months later by the captain and the crew members who remained loyal to him. There is a lot of detail about the conditions on the island, about life on The Wager, and about the court martial that was held when all was said and done.

I recommend both of these books if you are interested in either of these topics. Right now I'm listening to American Prometheus: The Triumph and Tragedy of J. Robert Oppenheimer by Kai Bird and Martin J. Sherwin. I'll keep you posted!
